PRACTICE PROFILE

The practice has a rich history as the business has existed for over 100 years, making us one of the longest practicing Architectural firms in the region. Following Richard's retirement in 1990, Peter Eves and Ian Moore took over the running of the business and they have continued to develop expertise in the design of education facilities including classrooms, libraries, theatres, 6th form centres and laboratories through new and refurbishment projects. Work on community projects and the National Health Service, both locally and across the UK alongside ecclesiastical and domestic projects has created an exciting and inspiring portfolio of work.

John Leeson and Andrew Staunton are the new generation in the office and together we are looking to the future. We offer our clients the advantage of working with Building Information Modelling (BIM) software and have already seen how 3D renders and imagery of schemes can transform the way in which we communicate our ideas to clients, other consultants, local authorities and contractors. These new technologies together with our traditional skill sets allow us to communicate our designs and aspirations so that we can help you, the client, to achieve your goals and ambitions on both current and future projects.
